

ARMY AND NAVY PROMOTIONS.
Interest felt in the surgeon generalship of the Navy.

THE PRESIDENT'S ACTION IN THIS CASE WILL, IT IS BELIEVED, INDICATE HIS GENERAL POLICY—if those next in rank are not taken it will upset many calculations.

The selection of a successor to Surgeon Gen. Brown of the navy, who retires on the 10th instant, will settle a question of great interest to officers of the army and navy. What makes this particular appointment of special importance to them is the belief that it will indicate President Cleveland's policy in the matter of appointments in the army and navy.

It is said that the President is opposed to the promotion of officers on the verge of retirement, and that he is unwilling to place at the head of naval bureaus officers who cannot justify their four years' term prescribed by law.

BANKING OFFICERS WHO WOULD BE DEBARRED.

As already stated in THE STAR, a policy of this kind would debar Dr. Gilson, Dr. Dean, and the four other ranking officers of the medical corps of the navy from appointment as surgeon general, and would confine the preference to their juniors in the service. The only medical directors who would be eligible for appointment under the alleged policy mentioned in the statement of Col. J. G. Gilson, Dr. Gilson, Dr. Dean, Dr. Bates, Dr. Bogert, W. K. Schodfeld, G. S. Beardisley, H. M. Wells and John H. Clark. While the selection is not necessarily confined to the list of medical directors, it is believed that the President will not go below that grade in filling the approaching vacancy.

EFFECT IN THE ARMY.

Should the President act in this matter according to present predictions, it will probably upset the calculations of the war projects in regard to the promotion of various vacancies in the army. Col. Carron, fourth infantry, would be removed from the list of possible brigadier generals; Col. Page, the senior officer of the medical corps, would stand no chance of promotion as surgeon general of the army, and Col. Gilson, Dr. Gilson, Dr. Dean, and the four other ranking officers of the medical corps of the navy from appointment as surgeon general, and would confine the preference to their juniors in the service. The only medical directors who would be eligible for appointment under the alleged policy mentioned in the statement of Col. J. G. Gilson, Dr. Gilson, Dr. Dean, Dr. Bates, Dr. Bogert, W. K. Schodfeld, G. S. Beardisley, H. M. Wells and John H. Clark. While the selection is not necessarily confined to the list of medical directors, it is believed that the President will not go below that grade in filling the approaching vacancy.

THE POWER AS TO RECESS APPOINTMENTS.

Col. Carron, Col. Page and Col. McKeever will all be retired between now and the reassembling of Congress in regular session.

Of the six bills introduced by the President to make promotions during a recess of the Senate, where the commissions will expire before the Senate can pass upon them, it is conceded in army circles that the adjutant general lies between Gen. Ruggles and Gen. Vincent, while Gen. Greene a chance third. Of the six, Gen. Vincent is the first to retire and the selection of either of the two will shut him out forever. In the navy, bureau appointments are for a term of four years, but in the army they hold until the incumbent goes on the retired list.

TWO IMPORTANT VACANCIES.

Some surprise is expressed at the apparent delay in army appointments, and the most plausible explanation offered is that the powers that be are too much engrossed in other matters just at present to consider purely military affairs. Two important vacancies have existed since the change of administration. One was caused by the enforced retirement of Brigadier General Carr and the failure of the Senate to act on the nomination of Col. Osie. The other is the vacant paymastership, which had been filled by Adj't Gen. Dyer. The Senate had held up the nomination of Mr. Larmon, and the selection of either of the two will probably have to wait for the President's action within the present month.

COMMODORE DEWEY'S RESIGNATION.

Another vacancy will occur at the Navy Department this week by reason of the resignation of Commodore Dewey as chief of the bureau of equipment and repair. He resigns for the purpose of entering a course of study at the Naval War College in a summer session.

CHANCEY DEPEW'S WIFE.

Sudden Termination of the Life of a Lovelorn Woman.

Elise Hagerman Depew, wife of Chauncey M. Depew, died at her home, No. 43 West 54th street, New York city, at 12:30 yesterday afternoon.

Although Mrs. Depew was known to be seriously ill, this sudden termination of her illness was not expected by her family and those who were most intimately connected with her. Her condition showed no material change Saturday, but early yesterday morning the turn for the worse came.

Mr. Depew, his son, Chauncey, Jr., Mrs. Depew's mother, Mrs. Hagerman, and her two little nieces, the children of another brother, now dead, and who were left without parents, were all present when the end came.

Mr. Depew was completely prostrated and shut himself up against all callers. During the afternoon he was seen in the parlors of the family called at the residence, leaving cards and expressing sympathy with the family.

Personally, Mrs. Depew was a woman of marked attractiveness. Her slender, graceful figure, very graceful hair, and clear, fair, brilliant hair of her complexion. Her eyes were perhaps her most striking feature, large, dark and expressive, now sparkling with merriment, now soft and sympathetic. She was a charming conversationalist—bright herself at bon mots and repartees, and quickly appreciative of it in others.

Mrs. Depew was a New Yorker by birth. She was the daughter of the late William A. Ogden Hagerman, and her family is one of the oldest and most considered in the city.

ANACOSTIA.

Mr. A. Shaeffer is rebuilding the retaining wall around his property, which was washed out during the last wet spell.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Southwick last night inaugurated a series of mission services at Haine's Hall. These are being conducted under the patronage of the Evangelical Christian Union.

Fifty-four candidates for baptism were immersed in the Anacostia river yesterday. They represented Mount Bethel Colored Baptist, Rev. George Bassett, and Israel Baptist Church, Rev. W. M. Johnson.

The Anacostia railroad is preparing to remove the side-bearing rails of its M street track and to replace them with center-bearing rails.

Dr. C. H. Weiss has returned from Chicago, where he attended the opening of the fair.
